

Press Statement on FCC Rulemaking Process

06/17/2021

As we have stated publicly many times, we respect the right of the U.S. government to regulate the domestic market. That certainly includes the authority of the FCC to regulate the country's telecommunications network.

However, we urge the FCC, and all of our company's U.S. stakeholders, to recognize that our product and technology pose no threat to the U.S. network or to national security. We are not government-owned or directed. Rather, we are a private-sector business, traded on the public markets that adheres to standards for ethical practices in our industry.

We look forward to presenting these facts to the FCC and hope that the Commission will keep an open mind as it embarks on what we expect will be a robust, deliberate process for considering this proposed rule.

Best regards,
