

Statement on FCC's Order

Dahua is continuing to review the FCC's order, but based on our current analysis we believe that the actions taken in the Order go far beyond the Commission's statutory authority, and will do little or nothing to protect U.S. national security. However, the FCC's Order does not affect products that are already authorized, and leaves open a path for Dahua to secure authorizations for additional products in the future, provided they are not marketed for public safety, government facilities, critical infrastructure, or national security purposes.

Given that Dahua's products are not currently marketed for those purposes and have not been for several years, we are reasonably confident that this Order will allow us to continue to serve most of our US customers for years to come.
